Movie Actress Admits Wedding With Soldier

His Uniform And A Caressing Moon Made Her Do It, She Says

Hollywood, June 18—(UP)—It was a combination of a handsome uniform and a caressing Hawaiian moon which caused her to elope in Honolulu with Army Corporal James H. Ripley, July 1941, she reported today.

"I don't know which hit me on the head the hardest," Mrs. Canova said. "That uniform of Mr. Ripley, or that soft moon. Anyway I got on the head and we upped and got married and now my poor groom is in the jail house. And I love him so."

What a honeymoon! "Seems that when the moon batted Corporal Ripley on the brow, it was a W. O. L. He managed to marry Movie Star Judy, all right, but he had hardly had time to give her his first kiss before the military police hauled him off to the clink.

These facts and others the bare-legged Miss Canova revealed as she returned to her studio the afternoon yesterday at San Francisco aboard a Hawaiian clipper and flew to Hollywood.

Miss Canova, whose press agents call her the "Jenny Land of the Clark," though she's never been closer to them than Bora Bora, Ill., said she had to leave her husband behind because she was scheduled to start a "new movie immediately." She said it was entitled "Nightingale, Too."

"It was that beautiful, soft moon," she said. "It sort of reached down and put its arm around my shoulder. And then I just sort of bumped into Mr. Ripley, Corporal."

mean, He was from my home town in Florida. I knew him real well. And there was no moon moon moon putting its arm around me. Then Corporal Ripley subbed for the moon and there was a nightingale on a telegraph post and I just got over by him. Yes, sir, I just got over by him."

The wide-mouthed Miss Canova, who has earned a fortune with her hill-billy fliares—invented by her in Florida—25 years ago, said she married one William Burns several years ago.

Tanker Service Provided For East

Washington, June 18—(UP)—In his first positive action to help the petroleum famine, Secretary Ickes announced today a new tanker service to increase the Atlantic coast supply by 100,000 gallons annually.

After conferences with officials of the Sun Oil company and the Standard Oil company of California, Ickes, who is defense petroleum coordinator, announced he had made recommendations whereby three huge tankers now engaged on routes between California and east coast ports would be switched to run from Gulf ports to the east coast.

The coordinator emphasized, however, that this increase in east coast supply did not greatly lessen the dangers of a prospective shortage in that populous area where he has said restrictions on civilian use of automobiles appeared "inevitable."

"Many additional steps must be taken," Ickes said, "if a serious east coast shortage is to be averted."

German Consul In Chicago Gets Ready To Leave

Washington, June 18—(UP)—The navy disclosed "stand by" orders to the last remaining reserve today and launched an intensive recruiting drive to assure adequate man power for the expanding sea forces.

The reservists not yet called to active duty include 6,664 officers and 14,313 enlisted men.

Secretary Knox last week issued orders that reservists called to active duty might now be ordered to active duty without their consent.

Prior to June 11 they were ordered out on a voluntary basis.

The new recruiting campaign is aimed at obtaining 12,000 to 15,000 men a month, instead of the present approximately 8,000.

German Consul In Chicago Gets Ready To Leave

Chicago, June 18—(UP)—Dr. Emil B. Haer, German consul-general at Chicago, said today that the consular staff here is burning records for its departure.

Dr. Haer said the destruction of records was a "routine thing" and "probably" is being done by other consular posts closed by order of the state department.

He said that some of the records were being preserved, particularly those dealing with disposition of cases in the United States and Germany. Originals of his records and correspondence are in Berlin, he said.

Some Democrats Rebel Against The Filibuster

Factional Leaders Fail To Iron Out Their Differences

RUSSELL LANE

Springfield, Ill., June 18—A revolt of downstate Democrats against their party's filibuster in the legislature developed today as the house failed to pass a bill to end the filibuster.

Three downstate representatives arose in the house to announce they no longer would continue to aid the filibuster, now in its fourth day.

But with only three rebels, the filibuster was not ended. The Republican majority blocked the bill by a vote of 11-15.

Representatives of East St. Louis, Perry of Glenn Elynn and Edwards of Danville all declared that the filibuster should end.

Find More Uses For New Type Processed Lard

Laboratory Experiments Make It Adaptable To Many More Things

A lot of present day cooks have the idea that lard is all right for bread and fried foods, but when it comes to cake making they are a bit shy. Lard they give a cake a strong taste and does not cream well.

Recently, however, home economists and food chemists got to work with their test tubes and ovens in the laboratories of several midwestern universities to see if they could find out how lard might be used with good effect in cakes.

In the Iowa State college of agriculture, workers discovered, for example, that by departing from traditional cake-making methods, excellent results could be obtained. One method consisted in creaming the lard and one-half the sugar. Next add the flour and milk. Then beat the other half of the sugar into the egg until it is very light and fluffy. Quickly add this sugar-sugar mixture to the cake batter.

And another reason for using lard is that it is richer in essential nutrients called fatty acids than most other shortenings. Thus lard, being entirely fat, with no added air or water, also goes farther than some other cooking fats in the cooking equivalent of a cup of butter or oil.

Lard is now more carefully processed for the consumer than ever before. It is a natural product as well as a beautiful one because easily digestible and contains no non-digestible chemicals.

Don't crowd lard when they are on full feed. This will cause loss of weight and may be prevented by carefully watching the lard or feed and immediately removing those that are "off feed." When lard shows the effect of over eating, the amount of grain should be immediately cut down or eliminated entirely for a short period, and feeding resumed gradually. It is well to keep an eye on lard while on full feed to note any that show symptoms of illness.

The U. S. department of agriculture announces the purchase of 418,848 pounds of pork products during the period April 26-28. Other purchases in the same period were 21,718,600 pounds of pork, 194,700 cases of cheese, 3,018,000 pounds of dry beans, 3,000,000 pounds of navy beans, 250 cases of grapefruit, 73 tons of apples, 74,000 bushels, and fresh apples, 210,493 bushels. These commodities were for distribution to needy families. Red Cross shipments to war refugees areas and for transfer to other areas under provision of the lend-lease act.

According to tests at Kansas State college, a very objectionable feed flavor was observed in milk when the cows grazed on alfalfa-brome grass mixture were milked three times daily. Cows that milked twice daily did not have this strong feed flavor in their milk. No off flavor was noted in the milk from cows grazing on sudan grass and the feed flavor was less intense from brome grass alone than from a mixture of brome grass and alfalfa. The intensity of the off flavor was greatest in the night milking. No off flavor was observed from the morning milking. When the cows are kept off the pasture seven hours before milking no feed flavor was noted in the milk.

Farmers who maintain livestock will do well to investigate brome grass for permanent pasture. Those who have given this grass a trial are largely in its praise. The Illinois experiment station after thorough experimentation with brome found that it is usually valuable from the standpoint of length of grazing season. It produces abundant feed gains of 1.5 to 2.5 pounds per acre per year. It is high as 24 pounds per acre per year. The grazing season has been made of brome grass at the University farm.

According to W. L. LaGrange, animal husbandman at Iowa State college, sheep growers can make good use of sorghum stage or fodder as a feed if they also supply plenty of legume hay and an increasing quantity of grain mixture as the lambing time approaches. In sorghum stage is used with non-legume hay, a protein-rich supplement is needed, such as soybeans, soybean oil meal or linseed oil meal. In addition the flock would have access to limestone and common salt.

A strain of rapid gaining pigs put on an average of 14 pounds more weight in 180 days than did a strain of slow-gaining pigs in recent tests at the Illinois experiment station.

The tests indicated that progress is possible in breeding toward different lean rates. The parent stock for the Illinois experiment was selected from 41 boars and 47 sows chosen at random from 48 purebred Hampshire herds throughout the state.

In other tests at the Illinois station, it was found that creep-feeding nursing pigs helps to offset the weaker weather conditions that interrupt day to day grazing on pasture.

One lot creep-fed shelled corn, free choice, with a protein supplement (two parts lanugine and one part soybean oil meal) gained 100 pounds in 50 days of feed compared with 84 pounds for the non-creep-fed group.

In years when the nursing pigs can graze freely on pasture, however, creep-feeding may not show much advantage.

An estimated 88 per cent of all motor trucks in the U. S. are less than 2-ton capacity. Freight car loadings for the week ended April 28 totaled 721,700, a gain of 11.9 per cent over the same week in 1940.

Knox Is Urging Approval For St. Lawrence Seaway

Washington, June 18.—Secretary of the Interior Harold I. Knox today urged approval of the St. Lawrence Seaway project.

The secretary said that the project would provide a shortcut for the movement of goods and materials between the Great Lakes and the Atlantic Ocean.

Knox said that the project would also provide a means of transportation for the movement of troops and military supplies.

LOUIS FAVORED OVER CONN IN NEW YORK TONIGHT

Champion Packs 25-Pound Edge In Weight

By GAVIN TALBOT
New York, June 18.—(UP)—The biggest, richest prizefight crowd since the second Louis-Schmeling battle three summers ago will surge into the Polo Grounds tonight to watch Billy Conn defend his heavyweight championship against challenger Louis.

CATCHING A FEW OFF FIRST:

By OHREN ALLEN

With golf talk filling the air these days, Father Herbert, director of St. Patrick's high school athletes, is preparing to present his third annual St. Patrick's golf tournament.

The big Negro 18th defense of his title promised to draw more than 40,000 fans to the stadium, many of whom are expected to arrive early to get a good view of the fight.

The most popular opinion was that something very much like that was due to happen to Conn, though the 23-year-old challenger was expected to be a tough fight.

Cavanagh to Refer
Joe and Billy's big, deadly-punching battle and the slim, handsome young contender will square off for their 15-rounder at about 9 p. m. (est.).

The official weigh-in, scheduled at 11 a. m. at the offices of the state athletic commission, was expected to show Louis packing an advantage of about 25 pounds.

Where the Conn adherents point out that Billy is fast as a streak and a great boxer, the same may be said about Louis. The Negro is fully as speedy as his challenger and, in the opinion of many, a more finished boxer.
